Competitions “Art & Science on Climate” and “Art & Science on Gender Equality”

The competition allows teenagers to use their creativity and their artistic and scientific skills to:

- Create an original work integrating one art topic (eg music, dance, sculpture, drawing, painting) and one scientific topic (eg energy, transport, aeronautics, biology, ICT) on climate or gender equality, addressing the issue and possibly proposing a solution, which should:
 - be made in physical material or multimedia/digital means (picture, video), and can consist of: drawing or painting; novel, story or poem; music or dance performance; handicraft or sculpture; project design or any other creative work;
 - be inspiring for people;
 - be completely original and not contain any third party's work;
 - be possibly done by participating children in a team and in the context of a class activity
